It's a "one-on-one" world -
Marc Benioff CEO Salesforce tells why Twitter is #1 CRM for sales and support

"One of the most exciting things that's going on right now is that we're moving into a world where everything is one-on-one and the ability for a company like General Motors to speak directly to that consumer is more important now than ever," Benioff explained.

"The ability to bring that information down – the intelligence of that one-on-one relationship – all the way down to the consumer, with the intelligence built in, that is an incredible opportunity.

In addition, most if not all of Salesforce's customers are using Twitter today as a customer-service platform, to interact in real-time with their own customers, not just for marketing and sales."

- “As a local business alliance, BIBA reaches out to Boulder County businesses helping them gain market exposure to their customers and other member businesses. Tom has significantly increased BIBA’s messaging outreach and marketing for our events. He has gained more than 6,000 twitter followers for BIBA and it is continuing to grow. I strongly recommend him for your marketing efforts; Tom has helped with the BIBA newsletter and other efforts. He has demonstrated great commitment and passion through his support to our mission and goals.”

- “Boulder Phone has been one of the leading providers of business telephones, PBX systems, cabling and other services to more than 1,000 customers in the greater Boulder-Denver area since 1986. Marketing has always been a challenge. However, Tom built our website, produces our twice monthly newsletter and adds daily Twitter posts now with more than 2,200 followers. Customers are engaged and increasingly Boulder Phone gains new followers, indicating our growing presence. He is sincerely one of the most relentless hard-working professionals I know and if you need his help you would not be disappointed.”

- “Rockies Venture is a complex mix of angel investors, venture capital, financial advisors, startups and technologists. We bring together thousands of people yearly to our more than 100 events educating, advising and guiding ideas from inception to execution and exits. Tom Cross has been a great help in adding “thought leadership” to our blog in the areas of marketing, thought leadership, artificial intelligence, gamification and others. He has also grown our Twitter followers by nearly 10,000 over the past year or so. His approach to marketing is the marathon than the sprint with a key view I agree with “top of mind keeps you first in line”. Customers rarely tell you when they are going to buy, but you need to be on their mind when they do. Tom is persistent, consistent and has been a great asset to RVC and would be a valuable partner to any organization.”

 - Call for custom “happy meal” pricing.

Taking Flight with Twitter

- If you still ask "why" Twitter, the answer is both easy and hard-ugly part.

The easy answer is - it is the new way to connect with your customers and provide customer service as they don't complain by just calling you they increasingly complain via Twitter with the famous hashtag #fail which can go viral.

If you think it is just for promoting your corporate blogs and blather, you are likely missing out on how customers really feel about you, this is the hard answer because customers just buy from someone else.

The ugly part is the longer you wait the harder it becomes as your competitors are working on adding followers as you fall behind.

Channel Partner Sales Strategy

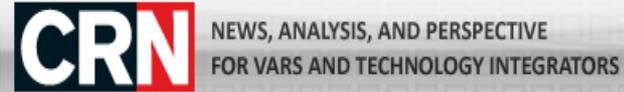

Executive Summary

We can provide channel partner development efforts as needed as “greenfield” or as a complement to your existing efforts.

Objectives of the work:

- Design, build and execute an effective authorized reseller channel partner program.
- Build a program to gain and retain 50+ channel partners.
- Build a program to achieve Computer Reseller News (CRN) 5 Star Rating in 201x.
- Build a channel partner strategy based on being the “thought leader” in the markets and customer areas desired.
- Revise on-going sales and channel partner efforts as directed by management to desired goals.

Review competing programs and build a “best in class” based on :

CRN's 5 Star Program

The 5-Star Partner Program rating recognizes the elite subset of Partner Program Guide vendors that give solution providers the best partnering elements in their channel programs. The 5-Star Partner Program Guide is assembled by UBM Channel Research using a methodology it developed for assessing information provided in vendors' PPG applications. The objective criteria include vendor investments in program offerings, partner profitability, partner training, education and support, marketing programs and resources, sales support and communication.

Tactical Activities

- Phase 1 - We will review all company product and technical literature as well as sales and technical presentations. We will customize all content to be “channel-ready.” As needed, assist management in developing effective business processes for channel partners. We will collaborate and develop business, legal, pricing and other elements of a best-in-class channel partner program including implementing channel-ready marcom strategy. We will develop and test strategy with a few select “alpha” special channel partners, then revise and rollout in Phase 2. We will assist as needed in achieving a CRN 5 Star rated-program.
- Phase 2 – We will begin US rollout of new channel program making contact with the 2,000+ Microsoft (MS) and other UC-unified communications channel partners in our database as well as other partners provided by company to assess, qualify and secure their assistance in selling your solutions/services. Also, if directed by management, begin developing a plan for international distributors and continue work on the CRN 5 Star program. We will provide mid-month and monthly progress reports and make recommendations for modifications to plan.

Channel Partner Rolodex
